BENJAMIN H. CAMPBELL. At the inquest after the discovery of the corpse two statements were sworn to. According to one Townsend crossed by the ferry as indicated; according to the other he must have gone to lower New York, passed over to Jersey City and taken train for Englewood, being driven from the lat-ter station to the Palisades by a cabman who identified the body as that of his fare. To the mystery of getting to the same place by two different routes at the same time was added the mystery of the shooting. The bullet entered the back of the head, and the hair was not burned. Many indications pointed to murder. But, after hearing all the testimony, the coroner's jury decided that Mr. Townsend—who hadn't a care, mental or physical, in the world, and who did not carry a pistol-committed suicide. It is because of this verdict and the unexplainable surround-ing circumstances of the affair that the dead man's relatives are now entertaining the grim skeleton of doubt.

The skeleton of anxiety has a prominent place in the household of Benjamin H. Campbell, a prominent politician and millionaire of Chicago. One night recently Mr. Campbell, who is a shattered invalid 75 years of age, arose and left his home at-tired in trousers, dressing gown and slip-ners. He wandered about the streets a SKELETONS. while and was seen by several people. Then he disappeared, leaving no clew behind.

It is said that a loss of $500,000 in an un fortunate business venture had worried him greatly. Yet this could by no means have crippled him financially, as his estate is valued at nearly five times that amount. A quarter of a century ago he was a great rriend of Gen. Grant, and was by him appointed United States marshal for the northern district of Illinois. His fortune came largely from judicious investments in street railways.

One theory regarding his disappearance is that he has committed suicide by throw-ing himself into Lake Michigan. The other, and the one held by the family, is that he is demented and is being cared for by strangers who cannot identify him.

The skeleton of suspicion will accompany William J. Baldwin, of Atchison, Kan., to the grave. Five years ago his sis-ter was murdered and he was charged with GENTLEMEN-In compliance with your request, I present you more fully the facts upon which I make my estimate of the county school tax required to raise needed upon the wants of the county schools. The total school population of Salt Lake county is 13,601. School population of the city, 8,818. County school population in the county, 8,818. County school population in the county, about 35. Total assessed valuation of property in the county, 852, 270,970. Valuation in the city, 844,495,970. Valuation in the county, 87,773,000. Of the 875,000 estimate made to the court, the county schools would receive about 233,250. county schools would receive about $23,250.

The territorial apportionment will give the county school subout $21,510. This would give the county school fund $47,760.

The school law provides for four terms of school and any district holding school less than three terms will receive yet restricts of than three terms will receive no portion of the school funds. The compulsory and free school clauses will insure the attendance of a high percent, of the school population in each district.

The funds, $47,700, must be sufficient to The funds, $47,780, must be sufficient to pay salaries of teachers of the schools. Good teachers command salaries ranging from $40 to $100 per month. Placing the average teacher's salary at $50 per month and estimating an average attendance of 75 per cent of the school population, school to be held in session eight months, and each teacher to have an attendance of fifty pupils, it would require about $35,000 for reachers' salaries, which would leave about $12,000 for current expenses, to be divided among thirty-five districts.

Considering the facts that no county tax

Considering the facts that no county tax was assessed to defray the expense of the schools this year, that many of the districts are obliged to rent school rooms, and that the districts have been recently supplied in the past, I am of the opinion that the estimate I presented you is as low as the circumstances of the schools would justify me to make.

I estimate that it will require an additional $5,000 to pay the salaries of the county superintendent and the county treasurer and the expenses of the board of county Superintegers of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county, I estimate that a tax of 1½ mills on the present valuation of the taxable property of the county as given above is needed.
